

Attorney Rob Swartwood Named to Congressman Phil Gingrey's Academy Nomination Board

West Point Graduate and Bronze Star Winner Swartwood to help congressional review process for new cadets

Congressman Phil Gingrey of Marietta has named Brock Clay Attorney Rob Swartwood to his Military Academy Nomination Board.

"Rob had a remarkable career in the US Army, starting with a solid base at the Academy at West Point," said Managing Member Scott Gregory. "Service to community and country is a key value in our firm. We are proud Representative Gingrey has recognized this value in our attorneys."

Regarding Mr. Swartwood Congressman Gingrey said, "I am proud to have nominated Robert Swartwood to sit on the Military Academy Appointment Board for Georgia's 11th Congressional District. As an Army officer who led Airborne and Ranger organizations for seven years, he performed valiantly in Iraq and Afghanistan. His distinguished service earned him two Bronze Stars, and I believe it qualifies him as an excellent judge of character for this Board."

Upon his appointment Swartwood commented, "I'm honored to have been chosen for the opportunity to serve on the Academy Nomination Board. I look forward to working with students, parents or administrators who want to learn more about the application process and the value of the academy and military officer experience."

Swartwood graduated top of his class from the United States Military Academy at West Point, followed by active duty in Afghanistan and Iraq as a Captain. A graduate of UGA's law school, Swartwood now practices in the corporate and transactional practice at Brock, Clay, Calhoun & Rogers, LLC.
