Brock, Clay, Calhoun & Rogers, P.C. Hosts the Inaugural Meeting of the Cobb Bar Association’s Minority Development Committee’s Mentorship Program on September 4th

Marietta, GA – August 25, 2008 – Nina Gupta, an attorney in the law firm of Brock, Clay, Calhoun & Rogers, P.C. has actively participated in founding the Minority Development Committee to promote diversity within the Cobb Bar Association to reflect and represent the diversity of the Cobb County community. Brock Clay will host the first meeting for the committee’s Mentorship Program on September 4, 2008.

The Mentorship Program for law students is one of the Minority Development Committee’s first initiatives. Ms. Gupta envisioned a program in which the Cobb Bar Association could share its vast expertise with students and nurture legal talent for the future to keep Cobb County’s legal community among the strongest and most talented in the state. The Mentorship Program will match attorneys from the Cobb Bar Association with law students from Georgia State University School of Law. Attorney-mentors will come from all areas of practice, from solo practitioners to public sector attorneys to attorneys working in some of Cobb County’s largest, most established firms.

Ms. Gupta is a part of Brock Clay’s Educational Law team, where she represents the firm’s large and small school district clients. Ms. Gupta handles a variety of educational issues and a full range of employment issues. She has extensive experience with Special Education issues.
